1 January 2022 | South East Queensland

Forty additional weekly SEQ bus services that were temporarily introduced in August 2020 to help customers maintain social distancing have now been permanently added to the TransLink public transport timetable.

The extra 40 permanent bus services were previously set to run until December 10, 2021.

The additional services are split evenly across the five business days per week, with eight per day running either just before or just after the traditional peak period.
